“Finding adventure with the Open24 in 2006”

Entries have now opened for the 2006 Open24 which takes place on the 29/30th July. Following the success of this years Open24, 2006 will see yet more adventures to raise the eyebrows of Adventure Racers in the Yorkshire Dales.

The Open24 is styled to appeal to the hardened racers as well as beginners who want to take a foray in to the longer events. The events are structured so that those wanting to take life a little easier can find somewhere to rest yet still being able to experience the “Trouser Fillers”.

James Thurlow the event director says “The Yorkshire Dales has so much to offer the Adventure Racer with the natural environment providing the ideal playground”. Disciplines and challenges are still in the planning stage; however James is confident that the 2006 event will surpass that of this year.

2006 also sees new sponsors on board with Mountain Hardwear, Merrell, EAS and Total Adventure all set to support Open Adventure. Anquet maps is also providing 20% off electronic mapping* for Open24 competitors.

The entry fee of £200 per pair is discounted to £180 for those who enter before April 1st 2006. Check out this year's comments and event details on the recently re-launched website. www.openadventure.com
